A person having low monthly income holds the three values for years and behaves according to these values, which are:

- (i) I should never sell or mortgage ancestral property I have received from my ancestors
- (ii) I should provide best possible education to my children
- (iii) I should provide equal opportunity to both my son and daughter

It happens that both of his son and daughter gets admission in Medical college, where he has to pay Rs.3 lakh per year for education of each for 5 years. This means he has to arrange Rs. 6 Lakh per year or Rs. 30 lakh in five years, which is not possible with his salary. He can arrange at the most only Rs. 15 lakh from his past savings and salary of next five years. This is enough only for son's education, and he is worried about his daughter's education, bank manager says that he may get Rs. 15 lakh loan if he mortgages his ancestral property. There is a brain storming in his mind and he finally decides to mortgage the ancestral property by diluting the value number (i) in favour of value no. (ii) and (iii).

Directions: Read the following comments made about a practical session. Then answer the questions that follow by circling the letter of the best answer.

“In the general higher education programmes in the country, quite often, the students are at a loss, as to what skills are expected of them to be displayed at the end of each practical session. In such a situation, the effectiveness of developing the required skills gets missed out and the teachers concentrate more on the cognitive skills during the practical session rather than on the practical and social skills that can be very effectively developed during the practical sessions.”

Which one of the following propositions is most relevant with reference to practical sessions?

- A. Cognitive skills are only developed and ought to be assessed in the practical session.
- B. Social skills are only developed and ought to be assessed in the practical session.
- C. Cognitive skills and social skills are only developed and ought to be assessed in the practical session.

Because of which of the reasons, it is not considered very effective for teachers to assess and give feedback about social skills and attitudes of the students:

- (i) It is not possible, most of the time, for teacher to observe the behaviour of students with each other when they work in teams.
- (ii) Considerable number of students behave differently when they know that they are being observed by teacher as compared to when teacher is not observing them
- (iii) When teacher point out shortcomings in social skills and attitudes, considerable number of students takes it teachers' prejudices towards them due to caste, gender, religions, economic status etc. and ignore the feedback. This also spoils the relationship between teacher and students.

Out of the above the correct reasons are:

- A. (i) and (ii) only
- B. (i) and (iii) only
- C. (ii) and (iii) only
- D. (i), (ii) and (iii)
