Indian elections in 1971 started with congress’ Garibi hatao’ slogans. As oil prices increased in the international markets, India too was captured in the inflation. Rising prices of oil, foodgrains and other essential commodities led to massive protest in many parts of the country. Students’ protests in Gujarat and Bihar during 1974 led to the emergence of leaders such as Morarji Desai, Jayaprasak Narayan among others.

Moreover, there was a railway strike organised by George Fernandes to meet the demand of improved working conditions and bonus for the Railway employees. The period also saw the conflict between judiciary and the executive. This conflict culminated in the famous Kesavananda Bhartti case, and later into a ruling declaring Indira Gandhi’s election invalid.

As the Allahabad High court passed a judgement to this effect, the stage was set for political commitment between congress and apposition parties led by Jayaprakash Narayan.

These events finally led to the declaration of emergency by the government on 25th June, 1975.

The issue of conflict between the executive and judiciary was over:

(1) Fundamental Rights of people
(2) Decreasing the power of judiciary
(3) Amending the criminal laws
(4) Appointing the judges of the Supreme Court
