SC's judgment on Delhi govt and LG reaffirms the principles of representative govt and federalism

The Supreme court verdict that will hopefully settle the acrimonious dispute between APP's Delhi government and the Lieutenant Governor-the issue was who controls administrative services-is a reaffirmation of federalism and the principle that people's choice of a government must matter. India's Capital has been hosting an unedifying spectacle, and SC's clear verdict should leave all parties in no doubt where their power begins and ends. The political party rivalry between BJP and AAP will sharpen. But that's alright in a democracy. What's not is schoolyard-like fights everyday.

While the issue decided by the constitution bench was whether the Delhi government has legislative and executive powers over the city's bureaucracy, that fight engendered many others. From teachers training to power subsidies, AAP has accused successive LGs of interference, and LGs have returned accusations of 'impropriety' and worse. The bitter public battles resulted in a bureaucracy caught in the middle of warring chiefs and severely affected governance. LG annulling, rejecting, removing appointments made by the Delhi government was one part of the story. There were other theatrics-a strike by administrative officers following an allegation that an AAP MLA had assaulted an officer. At the time, in a first, the CM and three ministers camped at LG's office/residence overnight demanding to direct the striking officers to call off the protest. Delhi has had enough of this.

SC had said GOI taking over executive powers of an elected government would "completely abrogate the federal system of governance and the principle of representative democracy"; and that "the permanent executive, consisting of unelected civil service officers... may act in ways that disregard the will of the electorate." That's a lesson for everyone. When people elect governments, governments must, within well-understood constitutional boundaries, be allowed to govern, including in allocating duties to officers. And if duly elected state governments must always be in lockstep with the Centre then there isn't much to be said about our federalism. The chatter after the SC verdict is that AAP is again the boss of the Delhi government. The more profound point is that the people are the boss.
