Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow from Q.No 11(i) to 11(vii):

Population becomes human capital when there is investment made in the form of education, training and medical care. In fact, human capital is the stock of skill and productive knowledge embodied in them.

‘People as Resource’ is a way of referring to a country’s working people in terms of their existing productive skills and abilities. Looking at the population from this productive aspect emphasizes its ability to contribute to the creation of the Gross National Product.

Like other resources population also is a resource – a ‘human resource’. That is the positive side of a large population that is often overlooked when we look only at the negative side, considering only the problems of providing the population with food, education and access to health facilities.

When the existing ‘human resource’ is further developed by becoming more educated and healthy, we call it ‘human capital formation’ that adds to the productive power of the country just like ‘physical capital formation’.

Investment in human capital (through education, training, medical care) yields a return just like investment in physical capital. This can be seen directly in the form of higher incomes earned because of higher productivity of the more educated or the better trained persons, as well as the higher productivity of healthier people.

- 11(i) What kind of investment is needed to make human capital ? Explain. (2 Marks)
- 11(ii) How is human capital a resource ? (2 Marks)
- 11(iii) In what manner we can look at the positive side of large population ? (3 Marks)

- 11(iv) What kind of returns does an investment in human capital yield ? (3 Marks)
